Introduction to Child Support Services

The Arizona Division of Child Support Services (DCSS) provides services to any person who needs assistance in establishing paternity, a medical support order, or modifying or enforcing a child support order. This person may be a custodial parent, a caretaker with physical custody of a child(ren), an alleged father wanting to establish paternity, or a noncustodial parent wanting to establish, modify, or enforce a child support order. Any person receiving public assistance such as Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), Medicaid, or federally assisted Foster Care is automatically referred to the DCSS. All other individuals must apply for services.

What does Child Support do to help me with my case?

The DCSS is a federal/state/local program that collects child support from parents who are legally obligated to pay. The DCSS has three goals:

- Ensure children are supported by their parents
- Encourage family responsibility by offering services and resources which help families become more self-reliant
- Reduce taxpayer costs

Research has shown that noncustodial parents who are financially involved in their child's life by paying child support are more likely to be involved in other aspects of their child's life, such as school and extracurricular activities. It is also true, that a parent allowed to take an active role in the child's life is more likely to pay his or her support. When a parent does not pay child support, it places their child at risk of their basic needs not being met. This may cause the primary residential parent to seek government-funded programs, such as cash assistance or nutrition assistance, to meet those needs. However, there are several reasons why a parent may have difficulty in paying child support. Perhaps they lack the skills and training to get and keep a job, or they may have issues related to mental illness or substance abuse problems.

The DCSS works with other divisions which administer programs such as cash assistance, nutrition assistance, vocational rehabilitation, jobs, and child care to ensure that both parents have the help needed to take steps toward their own well-being and self-sufficiency, as well as their families.

The DCSS is not permitted to be involved in custody or visitation issues that often accompany child support matters. Along with property settlement, these are legally separate matters, and the DCSS is unable extend services pertaining to these issues. For more information contact your County Clerk of Court. Find your County Clerk of Court <https://www.azcourts.gov/AZ-Courts/AZ-Courts-Locator>

Establishing Paternity

The DCSS provides services to any parent or person with a child who needs help with locating the noncustodial parent (Locate¹) for the purpose of:

Establishing legal parentage for child(ren) (Paternity²) when the parents are not married. DCSS has the Hospital Paternity Program (HPP) that is a collaborative effort between DCSS and Arizona's hospitals, birthing entities and the Arizona Bureau of Vital Records to provide paternity establishment services for unmarried parents immediately following the birth of their child.

There are several ways you can establish paternity:

- At the hospital by signing a Voluntary Acknowledgment of Paternity form that is available at all hospitals and birthing centers for unwed parents to complete and sign after their child is born. After the Acknowledgment of Paternity is signed, nurses and birth recorders can help to legally establish paternity for a child.
- Both parents may come into a DCSS office to fill out and sign the Voluntary Affidavit Acknowledging Paternity form that is filed by the DCSS through the HPP to establish paternity.
- A Voluntary Acknowledgment of Paternity, signed by both parents, can also be filed with the court or an administrative agency to establish legal parentage.
- The Acknowledgment of Paternity is also available at all Vital Records offices.
- If you are unsure of paternity, genetic testing may be needed to prove the identity of the father.
- If one parent is uncooperative in establishing paternity on a case opened with DCSS, the case may be referred to the Assistant Attorney General's Office for a court hearing to establish paternity and a child support order.

Establishing an Order

How do I get a child support order?

Establishing a child support order is a legal process that results in an order that sets a monthly amount of money to be paid by the noncustodial parent for the support of the child (ren), or by both parents when a child is in foster care or in the care of a guardian or relative.

1 <https://des.az.gov/services/child-and-family/child-support/apply-for-child-support>

2 <https://des.az.gov/services/child-and-family/child-support/apply-for-child-support/establish-paternity>

A child support order can be established when:

- The child or children on the case are under the age of 18.
- Paternity is established.
- The parents are separated or divorced and have not established a child support order.
- The parents were never married.
- A caretaker, agency, or other party has custody of the child(ren).
- Both parents are given proper legal notice that child support will be established and the non-custodial parent does not respond within the required time period, an order for support may be entered. This is called a “default order.” It is legally valid and enforceable.

What about medical for my children?

The Arizona courts and the DCSS require that health insurance coverage and/or cash medical support be provided for children when establishing the child support order.

The DCSS will list either the mother or the father in the support order as the person who must provide health coverage, or responsibility can be assigned to both. Only the paying parent can be ordered to pay cash medical support. Medicaid (AHCCCS) coverage may be provided to meet this requirement.

How much will I have to pay?

The Arizona Child Support Guidelines ensure that a fair share of each parent’s income and resources are provided for the child(ren).

- A basic support obligation is determined using the monthly gross incomes of both parents and information about what intact families spend on their children.
- The amount of child support a parent pays can be affected by the amount of parenting time (visitation) with the child(ren).
- The parents also share the costs for child care, medical support and uninsured medical expenses.
- The paying parent’s share of the obligation establishes the amount of the child support order.
- The child support amount calculated using the guidelines is accepted as appropriate unless either parent shows a reason for a deviation.

Instructions and guideline worksheets for calculating the amount of child support owed are available by mail or from the Arizona Supreme Court Web site at:

<https://www.azcourts.gov/familylaw/2018-Child-Support-Calculator>

Collecting Child Support

How does DCSS help me receive money for my children?

The DCSS has legal authority to take enforcement actions when the paying parent is not making payments for (time)/$$ (threshold) and has been notified. However, the DCSS is required to provide notice to parents when taking enforcement actions. These notices include instructions on how to request an Administrative Review to dispute enforcement actions being taken. Possible enforcement actions include:

Administrative Income Withholding Order

The DCSS is required to issue an Income Withholding Order (IWO) to collect support from a parent's earnings. The DCSS will send an IWO to an employer to withhold the monthly amount for current support. The order may include an additional amount for any unpaid support that is owed. A.R.S. §25-505.01

Arizona Department of Revenue (DOR) State Income Tax Refund Offset

The DCSS is authorized to offset State Income Tax Refunds when a past-due child support balance of at least $50 exists, even if current child support payments are being made. The DCSS may offset the income tax refund up to the total amount of past-due support owed. 45 C.F.R. §303.102

Asset Seizure

The DCSS may seize accounts with financial institutions or other property to collect child support arrears when twelve months or more in unpaid support is owed or when there is a court ordered judgment. Financial institutions may include banks, credit unions, federal and state savings and loan associations, trust companies, mutual funds, and other similar institutions. A.R.S. §25-521

Credit Bureau Reporting

The DCSS is required by federal law and state statute to report all support cases to consumer reporting agencies on a monthly basis. The credit report account shows the monthly payment amount that is due, the payment amount received, and any past-due amounts. Arrears balances of six months or more of unpaid support appear on credit reports as collection accounts. Credit reporting continues as long as payments are due on an open child support case. A.R.S. §25-512

Passport Denial

The DCSS may report any unpaid support that is equal to or greater than $2,500 to the U.S. Secretary of State who may refuse to issue a passport or may revoke a current passport until the unpaid child support is paid. Arizona will not release a hold on a passport until the arrears are paid in full except in cases of substantial hardship. Pub L. 104 - 193 PRWORA – Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996

Property Lien

The DCSS may place a lien for unpaid child support on many types of property. If the property is sold or refinanced, the lien may be paid from the proceeds. The lien applies to property that is owned at the time the lien is recorded and to all property that may be acquired at a later time. A.R.S. §25-516

Lottery Winnings

The DCSS intercepts cash prizes in excess of $600.00 from a paying parent who owes past-due child support of $100 or more. A.R.S. §5-573

License Suspension or Revocation

The DCSS may review a case for license suspension when six months or more of child support is owed. State statute allows the DCSS to suspend a professional or occupational license without going to court. In addition, the DCSS may request the court to suspend or restrict a Driver License. The DCSS may ask the court to deny or revoke a recreational license (such as a hunting license and/or fishing license). 42 U.S.C. 666(a) (16); A.R.S. §§ 25-517 and 25-518

New Hire Reporting Access

Federal and State laws require all employers to report new hires to the State Directory of New Hires. This information is shared between states in a National New Hire Directory. DCSS can use this new hire information for income withholding and to locate parents who have a child support obligation. 45 C.F.R. 303.100; A.R.S. §23-722.01, A.R.S. §25-505, A.R.S. §25-505.01, and A.R.S. §25-513

Unemployment Insurance Benefits (UIB)

Arizona statute allows for the withholding of child support payments from UIB. Parties who owe child support may have payments deducted from weekly UIB amounts. A.R.S. §23-779 and A.R.S. §23-789

Workers Compensation Benefits

The DCSS has the authority to attach Workers' Compensation benefits from parties who owe child support. Weekly benefits or lump sum payouts may be taken to pay child support. A.R.S. §23-1068, A.R.S. §25-500, and A.R.S. §25-510

Federal Income Tax Refund Offset

Federal law authorizes the DCSS to ask the U.S. Department of the Treasury to offset an income tax refund owed to the paying parent. This offset may occur if the receiving parent is receiving public assistance (TANF) and at least $150 of unpaid support is owed, or if the receiving parent is not receiving public assistance and at least $500 of unpaid support is owed. The DCSS may offset the IRS refund up to the amount of unpaid support owed. Your spouse is entitled to obtain the portion of the refund that belongs to him or her. The injured spouse must file an Injured Spouse Claim to Tax Intercept with the IRS. Contact the IRS or tax preparer to obtain the proper forms. Sec. 452(k) [42 U.S.C. 652(k)] of the Act, Sec. 464 [42 U.S.C. 664] of the Act, 31 CFR §285.3, 45 C.F.R. §303.72, OCSE AT-16-03, OCSE AT-98-17, OCSE AT-09-01, OCSE AT-10-04, OCSE DCL-00-79, OCSE DCL-15-11, OCSE DCL-15-21, OCSE PIQ-01-06 and OCSE PIQ-11-01

Federal Administrative Offset (FAO)

The DCSS may request the federal government withhold and send payments owed to a paying parent if at least $150 (TANF cases) or $500 (non-TANF cases) in past-due support is owed. Some benefits such as social security payments, Railroad Retirement payments and Veteran's Affairs benefits are excluded from FAO. Arizona Administrative Code Title 6 R6-7-603, 31 CFR §285.1, 45 C.F.R. §303.72 and A.A.R. 5201

Intergovernmental

The other parent lives outside of Arizona, can DCSS help?

The Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (UIFSA), provides rules for the jurisdiction and modification of child support orders when the parents live in different states. DCSS must rely on the other jurisdiction's laws, regulations, procedures and personnel to take action on the case.

In some cases, the law allows Arizona to act as though both parents live in-state. In other most cases, the DCSS must request help from other jurisdictions to establish paternity and/or support or to enforce a child support order. The case is assigned as an "intergovernmental" case. When parents live in two different jurisdictions, timeframes associated with case processing are often longer.

By federal law, DCSS is responsible for communicating with both the other state and the party parent who requested our services. Contact your Arizona case manager for case status information instead of contacting the other state.

Enforcement and Registration of Other States' Orders

According to the UIFSA, the DCSS must enforce other states' support orders and income withholding orders in the same manner as Arizona orders. The DCSS may also register other states' orders with the Arizona Court and request that the Court enforce other states' orders. 45 C.F.R. 303.7, A.R.S. § 25-9

Intergovernmental Income Withholding

UIFSA also permits any person to send another state's income withholding order to the employer of a person who owes support even if that employer is in another state. A.R.S. §25-503 and A.R.S. §25-505.01

Income Withholding Order (IWO)

The DCSS has the authority to issue an IWO for current and past-due support. An IWO is issued to the employer to deduct the required amount from the payor's wages or other income. The DCSS has numerous tools to identify employers including Department of Labor wage data and "New-Hire Reports" that employers are required to submit to all states. 45 C.F.R. 303.100; A.R.S. § 23-722.01 and A.R.S. §25-513

Modifying a Child Support Order

I already have a Child Support Order, but I want to change it, how do I do that?

Both paying and receiving parents can request a modification of their existing child support order when there has been a significant and continuing change within the household, such as adding or changing health insurance, a loss of a job, disability, or an increase or decrease in income for either parent.

To print and complete the Request for Modification Review of Child Support, follow this link: <https://des.az.gov/sites/default/files/legacy/dl/CSE-1178A.pdf>

Once you have completed the documents, you may drop it off at your local office or mail your packet to:

Social Security Disability Benefits

I'm receiving Social Security Disability Benefits. Can my child support order be modified?

Social Security pays disability benefits under two programs:

Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) pays benefits to you and certain members of your family if you are disabled and have sufficient work history and paid Social Security taxes. When you qualify for Social Security benefits under this program, your children may also qualify to receive benefits while they are minors. The Social Security Administration (SSA) may also withhold a portion of your retroactive disability lump-sum to pay your child support arrears balance.

If your child(ren) receives dependent benefits, your monthly support obligation may be satisfied by those benefits. Contact the DCSS as soon as possible if your children will be receiving these benefits. The DCSS may refer your case to the court for modification if the children will be receiving benefits directly from the SSA.

The SSA may also issue a lump-sum payment to the receiving parent. If you become aware of such a payment as the paying or receiving parent, it is important to notify the DCSS right away to ensure proper credit towards the arrears balance.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is for people with little or no income and resources, as well as people 65 and older who meet the financial limits.

If you receive SSI, the DCSS will review your case for closure. When appropriate, the DCSS may refer your case to the court for a modification, due to an inability to pay.

Settlements

What is a Settlement of Arrears?

If you currently owe past-due child support, you may be eligible to participate in the Settlement Program. If you are interested in discussing a settlement offer, please contact a DCSS representative by:

Stopping into a local office or calling our Customer Service Center at 602-252-4045, or toll-free at 800-882-4151.

Past-due support may include amounts owed to the receiving parent, the State of Arizona, or both. The Settlement Program may provide the paying parent with an opportunity to pay off past-due child support. Additionally, a settlement may provide the receiving parent with a lump-sum amount for the arrears owed on the case.

Some of the advantages to settling an outstanding arrears balance may include:

- Paying parent may become current on the monthly child support obligation
- Receiving parent and children are assisted by receiving a lump-sum for the arrears balance
- Interest accrual, credit bureau reporting, and/or income tax offsets may be stopped
 - Opportunity for case closure
 - Adjustment of income withholding amount

My wages are being withheld; will a settlement offer stop the withholding?

The income withholding may be stopped if only arrears are owed and there is no current support obligation accruing. The income withholding may be adjusted to current support only if the monthly child support obligation remains owed.

What happens with credit reporting when my settlement offer is completed?

If there is still an active Arizona child support order, the case will continue to be reported to the credit reporting agencies, and the balance will be adjusted. If a case is closed due to a settlement payment, the case will be reported as closed.

Visitation and Parenting Time

Does Child Support help with Custody/Visitation/Parenting Time?

No, the DCSS is unable to represent either party in establishing and/or modifying Parenting Time (visitation) or Legal Decision-Making (custody) rights. If either parent wishes to modify or enforce Parenting Time and/or Legal Decision-Making, they must file their own action or seek legal counsel.

What is a Parenting Time Plan?

A Parenting Time Plan is a schedule that tells each parent when they will have their child with them for parenting time. There are all kinds of parenting plans, and yours can be customized for your own unique situation.

What about Legal Decision-Making?

Legal decision-making, which used to be called legal custody, is the right to make significant non-emergency decisions for the child, including decisions about education, health care, religious training and personal care decisions. It does not include the routine decisions you will need to make while the child is with you, such as what the child will eat for dinner, which bedtime story to read, which movie or television show the child will watch, or what the child will wear to school. In Arizona, parents can have sole or joint legal decision-making authority.

Joint legal decision-making means that both parents work together to make major decisions for their child. Sole legal decision-making authority means that one parent makes the major decisions for the child. Legal decision-making is addressed at the same time as a parenting time plan is put in place.

Do I need a Parenting Time Plan and, if so, where can I get one?

Having a parenting time plan allows both parents and children to know when they will be spending time together as a family. You can plan your schedule knowing what days and times you will have your child with you. Children also benefit from knowing when they get to spend time with each parent.

Closing My Case

How can I close my case with DCSS?

Only the applicant for services may request to close a case. If you are the receiving parent and not currently receiving cash assistance (TANF) or Medicaid (AHCCCS), and wish to discontinue child support services, you may request to close your case in writing, providing there are no assigned arrears owed to the state.

If you are currently receiving TANF and/or AHCCCS, you cannot close your case. Any arrears that accumulate while you are receiving TANF or AHCCCS are considered assigned arrears. Assigned arrears are used to pay back the state for the amount of TANF that has been given to you. Once the assigned arrears are paid, and you are no longer receiving TANF or AHCCCS, you may request to close your case.

Will I be able to reopen my case?

You may reopen your case with the DCSS by completing a new application for services.

DCSS may close your case

Your case may be closed for other reasons as well, even without a request. To learn more about the closure reasons, you can contact your local office representative.

The DCSS will also close your case once the child(dren) has emancipated and all arrears have been paid in full.
